

“She put the shells in the batter
and threw the eggs away.”

Difficulty completing familiar tasks can be a symptom of Alzheimer’s or dementia.

If this pattern of behavior has become common, you should encourage your family member to visit their doctor. A diagnosis of dementia can be scary, but we can help:

- Monthly support group for caregivers
- Special presentations by area experts
- Information about options and resources in this area

Our memory care neighborhood at Heritage Hill encourages residents to participate in favorite activities – like baking – and provides a dignified life in a safe and secure environment.
