A LEGAL NOTE

Separation is a very difficult time, there are many issues that require attention as soon as you separate from your spouse.

Where will the children live, and what are the terms of their custody?

Who will pay for Family Debts?

How much Support will be Paid?

How will the Property be Divided?

Will one spouse remain in the Matrimonial home/for how long?

A separation agreement is a settlement reached between both spouses that, under the framework of the family laws it outlines the division of property, payment of spousal and child support, custody, and access of children.

Having a Lawyer who specializes in negotiation and drafting separation agreements will ensure you've met all of the Provincial requirements making it binding and enforceable by the courts.

Make sure you know your rights, and get what you are entitled to.
