

The Conversation Project

If you're ready to join us, we ask you: Have you had the conversation? ONE conversation can make all the difference.

Have you had THE conversation – the one about how you would want to be cared for at the end of your life? These discussions are never easy, but they are important. Many do not have a plan for end-of-life care, dictating how they wish to live and die, leaving their loved ones left to make hard decisions that often leave them with a feeling of guilt.

The Conversation Project is dedicated to helping people talk about their wishes for end-of-life care. The program aims to shift our culture and encourage family members to communicate about the kind of care they do and do not want for themselves, before tough decisions need to be made.

The panel discussion will be led by Tina Griffin, DNP, FNP, Vice President of Patient Care Services & Chief Operating Officer for Athol Hospital. Additional panel members include Physicians, Registered Nurses, Social Workers, Attorneys and Quality and Risk Management Staff.
